

Why Park *

As of 2/08 Google AdSense has canceled ads on many WhyPark domains, apparently because of "duplicate content." Be aware of this if you sign-up with WhyPark and use an alternative, such as Yahoo ads.

Why Park is not a traditional parking service. They will create sites full of content and allow you to place your own ads on the site. We are just checking out their services - but they appear to be a good flexible alternative to domain parking - less trouble than fully developing your domains, but with much more potential than single-page parking services. Why Park started life as a site that sold a set of templates that you could use with AdSense ads. Google has begun to crack down on "made for adsense" sites, and the new Why Park system allows you to create useful sites with real content. It also provides the hosting for you.

For around $100 you can create full-blown content-filled sites for 100 of your domains, and keep all of the ad revenue. Their templates are becoming more flexible and more attractive as the system matures.

Some of our WhyPark pages have reached PR2 (Google PageRank) - a sign that Google is treating them as if they were full-blown websites.
